Winners Out of Six.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.--J. Jones

At the Fair Grounds.

On the strength of his last two races at the Fair Grounds, Exapo looks slightly the best in the first event to-day. He as twice run second to Broodler in sloppy and heavy going, his last out, Tuesday, being with practically the same weight as he carries to-day.

On that occasion he carried 102 pounds. To-day he has 103 scheduled. In both his races he ran a good secoend to a gelding that seems to be a mild sort of Hindoo in slushy going. Last Thursday the track was heavy, as it may be to-day. He carried seven pounds less on that date, but it appears as if he should win to-

Both races were longer than the threequarter sprint in which he is engaged to-day, but it looked as if he should win regardless. Kiss Quick showed reason-ably good form on her first two outs. She may be second, while our old friend Kin-looh Park ought to get third place at least.

loch Park ought to get third place at least.

In the day's feature, the fourth event, it looks as if Harmant's should win. He was coming strongly Tuesday when Maister bumped him. He would likely have caught Our Lillie, who came home alone on that day, had he been able to get clear sailing. So he must be selected to-day, especially as he seems to like a heavy track.

Dotage looks best of the 2-year-clds in the second race. Joe Kelley figures well up for first position, and Little Pearls of Gallantry is not far behind. From the manner in which the youngsters ran their last out Dotage should come home first.

manner in which the youngsters ran their last out Dotage should come home first.

Pretension and Knowledge blocks the best. Pretension has won some good races at six furlongs, but Knowledge has shown such speed as to make it appear that he can outsprint the Civill colf in the holding track likely to prevail to-day. Tower, on the strength of two good races of late, should be third, at least.

Wall should come home thead in the fifth race. He ran a good race yesterday, and looks to favor the going, as he did in the past. He is now racing in the Weckbeck colors, instead of in the Bratton blue and gold, but seems to have his old form. He has a couple of pounds off his race of yesterday, and the field opposing him is about the same class, although Larry Wilt looks more dangeroug than any horse he faced yesterday. This event would seem at tight fit between Wall and Larry Wilt, with Dawson close up for third place.

In the last race, Lynch looks reasonably well. He ran a good race at six furlongs yesterday, and has three pounds off to-day. Zama was third in good style a couple of days ago and should beat Goody Two Shoes for second money.

At Union Track.

Unless the weather man shows a re-versal of form, the Union Park track should be pretty well dried out by the time the first race is called this afternoon. The sandy, clay coated track had yesterday pretty well absorbed the moisture, and, with the exception of the back stretch and the straight, the track was not decidedly heavy. To-day it should not The fields will be comparatively short again to-day, thus affording a better opportunity for speculation, although less ctacular from a nonbettor standpoint. However, there are few nonbettors. Ninety-five per cent of those who attend the races these cold days nibble a bit, if they do not plunge.

The fourth race will be the feature.

Paul Whaley is the class, but is carrying a kip of 12 pounds. However, DeArman's horse should win. Somenos drops eleven pounds from his last race, but he does not figure to beat Whaley, neither does Poor Boy nor Miss Gould.

Red Light, with seventy-nine pounds, looks to be the best bet of the day. He drops eleven pounds from his mile race

Took Utopia Hotel Handleap From last Tuesday, when he ran third to Eliza Dillon and was only beaten by Will Shelly by a head. In this race Red Light got off hadly. In the field to-day, a bilindman would pick Red Light to win the second race.

bilindman would pick Red Light to win the second race.

Bluish is the class of the third race. Distance and trace conditions layor him. Bearborough should be second and Little Pirate a sure third. The price, however, on the last two will not differ materially and in a short field the show money will hardly jurify an investment.

Duellat is d-u-e. He ranks his field, aithough the race run by Bar le Due vesticuay makes one duncus of the issue. Mission's race of vesterday gives him a chance. He rhowed improvement over his last out.

Cleveland, O., April 27.—Rain and cold prevented the game scheduled to-day between the Blues and the St. Louis Browns. Either would have been sufficient without the help of the other to keep the teams off the field. Both combined made one of the most disagreeable April days the Weather Bureau has sent this vay for many weeks.

The Browns arrived early this morning and spent the day lounging about the Colonial Hotel. So many of the St. Louis players made their first marks as major-league stars as wearers of the Cleveland uniforms that they always have plenty of friends here to help them while away an idle day. There was a procession of them calling at the hot; this afternoon. No less than eight of the Brownshave trotted after the pennant for Cleveland in the last few years, beginning with Jimmy McAleer himself down to Wright and O'Connor, the last to go.

The Cleveland men were very glad of a day like this to a hump. The series should be a few passas enthusiastically of what the series in store for his pets.

Parke's Colt Captures Second Event on Fair Grounds Card From Platoon and Costigan Over Heavy Track.

Arch Oldham won from Platoon and Costigan in the feature on the Kinloch card yesterday, coming home in a riding finish after running Platoon dizzy at the head of the stretch.

to 5, but play at this figure soon beat down the odds to 11 to 20, the price being cut further by post time.
Although Oldham led for the last part of the journey and seemed to be galloping a furlong from home, he was nearly nipped a short distance out by Platoon, a furlong from home, he was nearly nipped a short distance out by Platoon, on whom Foley had worked most perseveringly. McMunien cased up Oldnam after the colt seemed to have a safe lead in the stretch, and Foley gradually brought Platoon up until the Durham colt was out half a length back.

Then McMulien sat down to ride and had to hustie Oldham vigorously for the closing strides. Barney Schreiber's Costigan was outraced early in the game and mished well back to the rear. What saved Arch Oldham from being caught by Platoon, in all probability, was the manner in which McMullen took him close to the rail as they turned into the stretch. This move saved Oldham several lengths and though it took him into the heaviest going, it put nim under no disadvantage, as Platoon bent Inwards when started for home, getting in the same going as that in which Oldham was running.

Next to this event, the fifth race was the most important on the card. Knowledge was selected to win by The Republic, with Arnold K. as account choice. With Knowledge withdrawn, Arnold K. represented The Republic's selection, and won handily, after being bumped severely at the stretch turn.

On account of his abrupt cutting across the field at the close, however, he was disqualined. That he interfered with horses behind him there is no question. But it is also certain that he himself was badly interferred with at the head of the stretch.

Patrol Judge Finney was watching this race from the stretch head and commented upon the manner in which Arnold K had been jostled by other contenders as his boy tried to gtraighten him out for home. From this point, it looked as if Arnold was more sinned against than sunning. His subsequent swerving and interference may have been regarded as a species of retribution, but it cost him dear, as he was immediately disqualified, although apparently much the best in the race.

The track was half sloppy and half heavy and sticky. Near the rail the water made the going slushy. On the outside, it was thick and holding. General Prig, in the first race, managed to get the going between the two extremes and won handily. Memphian, a mud lover of some repute, found it to her liking and won the third race rather easily.

Wall won the fifth race, getting off in front and coming along home in easy enough style. Nearest seemed contented to amble along in second place and stay there to the close. A little activity on the part of her rider would not have been considered amiss by the spectators.

Rengaw seemed best in the last race and won in handy fashlon. Lynch ran a good race in the sloppy going and was good race in the sloppy going and was second, while Pyrrho was third. ?

but his running mate took up the running where the big fellow left off and sustained the reputation of the stable. Setauket was an even-money favorite, and those who played him at that price figured that he only had to beat Gates. It was a pretty race. El Ghor, Seatauket and Bar Le Duc broke together, all well in motion. The former showed speed from the start, forced the pace, led into the stretch, and had barely enough left to stand off the determined finish made by Bar Le Duc.

Gates was off badly and ran a quarter before he got into his stride. The weight told on him, but at that, Earl sent him up to within a length of the bunch in rounding into the straight. Star Cotton was outclassed. From the start it was clear that the race was between El Ghor and Bar Le Duc. Both were game to the last jump, and Burton saved chough of his mount to finish ahead.

Mike Stratuse girded up his loins and wen the first race. From a betting standpoint Mike was a good thing at 10 to 1. Doctor Kanmerer, after running in front the head of the stretch, quit like a steer in the road. He will not do at the distance, and in the going. In at a quarter on a good or last track, the Doctor is worth a swell bet. Pay the Fliddler ran a remarkable race, and but for an extremely wide turn in the stretch might have wen.

tremely wide turn in the stretch might have wen.

The speedy little colt, Bearhunter, was again loyal to those who backed him at 2 to 2, and won handly, Dahy was second choice at 2 to 1, but, to the disgust of those who played him, he was practically left at the post. Bird of Passage came with a rush at the finish.

Wigwam, best of the field, beat Boomerack in the fifth, and St. Noel, in a hard drive, lasted long enough to beat Mission in the last.

The clear weather brought out about 2,000 persons, Generally the card was good and the betting brisk. There were ten books and a combination book in operation.
